Today's workforce constantly needs to upgrade their skills and gain command of new product lines, technology, software and applications. At the same time, managers need to ensure their employees have the required skills and certification to perform their roles as effectively as possible.

Over the past few years, technology-based solutions have emerged to help businesses drive workforce performance - and thus business performance - to new levels. However, despite the opportunities, the technology can be difficult, and costly, to implement. Additionally, businesses need to address the need for hosting, upgrades, system administration, end user support and content management.

Stranix, in partnership with SumTotal Systems, is addressing this challenge with an integrated workforce performance solution based on the latest technology and designed to provide businesses with a fully managed solution that is both quick to implement and cost effective.

The solution

Stranix is offering PerformanceCenter, an integrated workforce performance solution that combines the benefits of leading-edge technology from SumTotal Systems, the leader in workforce performance applications, with the ease of a fully managed hosted solution from Stranix. This provides businesses with an economical, scalable solution that can be setup quickly and eliminate the burden of system management and support.

The core of the solution is the SumTotal Systems TotalLMS -- a scaleable and flexible enterprise Learning Management System that allows businesses to manage classroom-based training, online learning, knowledge documents, and resources. TotalLMS enables managers to monitor training activities, from student enrolments to course schedules. In this way, managers can check on progress, ensuring staff have completed training necessary to comply with regulatory requirements or meet performance levels.

The solution also includes the SumTotal Systems ToolBook Assistant authoring tool that provides instructional designers a robust yet easy to use tool for developing engaging content.

A managed workforce performance system

A fundamental aspect of the PerformanceCenter solution is that it is a fully-managed hosted system which provides quick setup and eliminates the need for businesses to manage and maintain their own technology systems.

Stranix provides solution setup and configuration, rollout support, technical and administrative support, and overall solution management. PerformanceCenter is a complete end-to-end managed solution that allows businesses to focus on what they do best.

Flexibility at your fingertips

As your business needs evolve you can add several optional components including:

- TotalVCS. This web-based collaboration system provides businesses with the capability to reduce costs by conducting meetings, or delivering training, right from the desktop.
- MindLeaders Web-based Training Content. A large catalog of affordable training content that can be quickly made available through PerformanceCenter. Topics range from communication skills, to Microsoft Office courses to technical training.

Value and Benefits

With PerformanceCenter businesses can deliver tailored learning in the most effective way possible. Having a hosted workforce performance solution provides hi-tech learning without the burden of implementation, it reduces the risk of investing in technology that may become obsolete, and allows businesses to stay on the cutting edge with new technology that can improve business performance by improving workforce performance.

Benefits include:

- Eliminate the burden of managing the technology infrastructure, allowing businesses to benefit from a hosted solution as well as support from Stranix administration and technical expertise.
- Dramatically reduce implementation time and costs. The initial outlay is based only on what is needed now with the flexibility to grow as demands dictate
- Provide learners with what they need when they need it, enabling self-paced learning and the opportunity to learn remotely.
- Integrated multiple performance technologies in a single solution, providing functions such as online collaboration and virtual classroom
- Provide simple and flexible access 24/7 via a standard Web browser.
